A tomb psychology thus develops and slowly transforms Christians into mummies in a museum. Disillusioned with reality, with the Church and with themselves, they experience a constant temptation to cling to a faint melancholy, lacking in hope, which seizes the heart. EG83.

“But if in my life I fail completely to heed others, solely out of a desire to be “devout” and to perform my “religious duties”, then my relationship with God will grow arid. It becomes merely “proper”, but loveless.”

“I prefer a Church which is bruised, hurting and dirty because it has been out on the streets, rather than a Church which is unhealthy from being confined and from clinging to its own security. I do not want a Church concerned with being at the centre and which then ends by being caught up in a web of obsessions and procedures.” EG49

Turning words into actions is a challenge to our faith. Children and adults can use the suggestions on the cards in the classroom or community to turn our thoughts about mercy into actions and encourage us all to look at the world differently. They will prompt those who use them to turn their good thoughts into behaviours and in doing so, develop a habit of being merciful.

deeper and apply it in our everyday lives.
'People in our community do not then just hear us talking about God, but see us, through our actions, living out our faith each and every day with all the people we meet.'

'I truly believe that if we can encourage good practice with children and particularly when children and adults worship together, it might improve the prayer life of the whole church community.
'After listening to our children being interviewed today and explaining the power that God has had in their lives, I understand that what they can teach us all is both awesome and wonderful. It's sometimes difficult to imagine what most young children pray for, and how prayer has affected their lives. But the innocence and transparency of these young people, and their love for others, will touch your heart. Jesus is the reason for all of their blessings, and they know it. They may teach adults a thing or two about the importance and power of prayer.'
After the recording, Year 5 student Ava said that taking part in the show 'made us think more about God and Jesus'. She added: 'I feel a lot closer to God and Jesus and very proud of myself for talking about how I feel about God.'
One pupil commented: 'Everyone was cheerful and singing with a smile. The atmosphere was amazing.'
The programme will be aired on Sunday morning at 6.30am and will be available on demand from the BBC iPlayer www.bbc.co.uk/programmes/p03qt7ly.

PRESS RELEASE

Teignmouth school children tell radio listeners about prayer

Children from Our Lady & St Patrick's RC Primary School in Teignmouth will tell radio listeners about what prayer means to them and how they pray in a programme being aired on Sunday morning (1st May).

BBC Radio Devon's Sunday Service, a weekly act of worship led by members of Devon's faith communities, was this week recorded at the Teignmouth Catholic primary school.

Presenter Michael Chequer was joined by David Wells from the Diocese of Plymouth to record the show with pupils and staff from the school and local Parish Priest Father Mark Skelton.

As well as talking about what prayer is, why they pray and how they pray, the children sang hymns and heard a Gospel story read by one of the pupils.

Head teacher Sarah Barreto and Father Mark also spoke about the role of prayer in school life and in their own lives.

After the recording, one of the students commented that taking part in the show "made us think more about God and Jesus".

Another child added: "I feel a lot closer to God and Jesus and very proud of myself for talking about I feel about God."

The show will be aired on Sunday morning at 6:30 am. Sunday Service is also available on demand from the BBC iPlayer.
